Lewis Selected for State Youth Philanthropy Group

November 11, 2009 – The Putnam County Community Foundation announces that Jenna Lewis, a freshman at the University of Indianapolis and formal Cloverdale High School, will serve as a collegiate representative for the Youth Philanthropy Initiative of Indiana Partner Network. Lewis is a former member of the Putnam County Youth Philanthropy Committee and was selected to serve at the state level because of her local work and recent presentation at the Governor’s Conference on Service and Volunteerism.

The Youth Philanthropy Initiative (YPII), a special project of the Indiana Grantmakers Alliance, provides a central link to youth philanthropy education, trainings, best practices and resources. Over 40 organizations are involved in the statewide YPII Partner Network sharing the common goal of engaging Indiana youth in giving and serving in their local communities.
