THE DONORS:

The Education Endowment seeks donors who care about education in Putnam County. Every contribution is important and puts us one step closer to helping every citizen realize their educational potential.

Dr. Robert Farber started the fund in 2003 when he and his wife, Vera May, were surprised by the number of children who could not read at an acceptable level in Putnam County and Indiana. They envisioned an endowment to fund projects and programs in Putnam County that would change with the educational trends of the day and learning styles of students.

Donors give to the Endowment for Education because it provides a sustainable steady source of money for grants which could be used for any Putnam County educational project or initiative. These grants allow our County to fund projects as needs change, forever.

Current donors include teachers, students, retired teachers and professors, university faculty and staff, parents, and organizations alike.

The following giving levels are cumulative, which means a donor achieves a certain level based upon the total gift over their lifetime.

- Foundation Philanthropist—$1 million or more
- Endowment Philanthropist—$500,000-999,999
- Landmark Philanthropist—$250,000-499,999
- Estate Philanthropist—$100,000-249,999
- Legacy Philanthropist—$50,000-99,999
- Community Philanthropist—$10,000-49,999
- Benefactors Circle—$5,000-9,999

Opportunities to established named funds within the endowment exist and provide a way to honor someone with a significant gift.
